MORNING SESSION

PROJECT MANAGEMENT: From planning to execution, tips to consider for successful project delivery

Facilitators: Steve Tarantino, EKI Environment & Water and Justin Lovell, City of South San Francisco

Every local government employee will be a project manager during their career. In this workshop learn all aspects of project management including; project planning, scoping, consultant procurement, project life cycle, stakeholder outreach, and team communications. Discussions in the workshop will touch on areas specifically related to infrastructure projects and how to apply infrastructure project plans to any type of project to guide successful project delivery.

AFTERNOON SESSION

ORGANIZATIONAL ALCHEMY: Turning good people into great teams

Facilitator: Andreas Phelps, The Collective Potential

People are our most important assets. They provide the knowledge needed to successfully plan, design, build and operate our facilities. While the speed and complexity of our projects keeps increasing, our ability to effectively integrate the team's collective knowledge is woefully inadequate resulting in suboptimal outcomes. This seminar will explain the socio-technical dynamics that exist in project teams and provide some actionable strategies that anyone can use to enable positive dynamics, better integration, and synergistic solutions within teams so that teams can more fully realize more their true collective potential.
